A. Reading (20 pts)

Article 1

- a. What is the main point of the author? Answer in at least 2 sentences.

I believe that AI has the potential to revolutionize teaching and learning by providing personalized education and supporting teachers. However, it's crucial to implement it thoughtfully to avoid ethical issues and ensure quality education. We need to balance the benefits of AI with careful consideration of its risks and challenges.

- b. Do you agree with the author? Why? Why not? Explain.

Yes, I agree with the author. AI has tremendous potential to enhance education by offering personalized learning experiences and supporting teachers with administrative tasks. However, it's essential to address ethical concerns like bias and privacy. We must ensure that AI tools are used to complement, not replace, effective teaching methods.

Article 2

- a. Pick one point from this article and briefly explain by citing personal experiences.

One of the points from the article highlights how Aditi Srivastava leverages AI to enhance climate models, especially in understanding atmospheric gravity waves. Although I don't have personal experiences to share, I can provide an example to illustrate AI's impact on climate science. Picture a researcher who has dedicated years to studying weather patterns. With the help of AI, they can now process vast amounts of data more efficiently, resulting in more accurate predictions and a deeper understanding of complex phenomena like gravity waves.

- b. Is there any biased idea in the article? Explain why it is biased. Or elaborate why the author is fair.

The article seems fair and balanced, showcasing various AI applications across different scientific fields without showing favoritism. The author incorporates insights from multiple experts, offering a comprehensive view of AI's potential. There is no sign of bias, as the article emphasizes factual information and highlights the positive contributions of AI to scientific research.

B. Listening (10 pts)

Questions:

Documentary 1

1. What is the main idea of the documentary?

The main idea of the documentary is to explore Elon Musk's childhood and how it shaped him into the visionary he is today. The documentary starts by introducing Elon Musk's parents, Maye Haldeman and Errol Musk. It then goes on to discuss Elon Musk's difficult childhood, including his alleged abuse by his father and his bullying at school. The documentary also explores Elon Musk's early interests in science fiction and video games, and how he taught himself how to program computers. The documentary then follows Elon Musk's journey to the United States and his founding of several successful companies, including Zip2, X.com, PayPal, SpaceX, and Tesla. The documentary also discusses his controversial views on climate change, artificial intelligence, and immigration. Finally, the documentary concludes by exploring Elon Musk's vision for the future and how he hopes to change the world.

Documentary 2

2. What is an important issue tackled in this episode? Indicate the episode in your answer.

The video "Biel Harbisson: I listen to colors" tackles the issue of achromatopsia, a rare visual condition that causes total color blindness. Harbisson was born with achromatopsia and has never seen color in his life. He has developed an electronic eye that translates colors into sound, which has dramatically changed his life. This video is important because it raises awareness of achromatopsia and other visual impairments. It also shows how technology can be used to help people with disabilities live more fulfilling lives. Harbisson's story is inspiring and thought-provoking, and it challenges us to think about how we perceive the world around us.

C. Film Viewing (5 pts)

Short Review:

The Cobbler (2014) is a charming movie where Adam Sandler plays a lonely shoemaker who finds a magical way to live other people's lives by wearing their shoes. I found it heartwarming and thought-provoking, even if the story felt a bit uneven at times.

D. Speaking- Topic Discussed: (5 pts)

Reaction:

The audience could really feel the good remarks of the speech, thanks to its right empowering and uplifting tone, well-timed pauses, and controlled breathing.
